

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Tom Ryan <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Wednesday, November 13, 2019 11:59 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Cc: Kay Severinsen; Keller, Ron; McElroy, Joe; Simon, Becky; Simon, Bill; Slupik, Ted
Subject: Fwd: another City Council meeting inclusion
Attachments: Kroehler Mansion -architectural significance 1 sheet.pdf

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

Sorry, this one is on one sheet!

----- Original Message -----

From: Tom Ryan [REDACTED]
To: Gabrielle Mattingly <mattinglyg@naperville.il.us>
Cc: Kay Severinsen [REDACTED] "Keller, Ron" [REDACTED] "McElroy, Joe"
[REDACTED], "Simon, Becky" [REDACTED] "Simon, Bill"
[REDACTED] "Slupik, Ted" [REDACTED]
Date: November 13, 2019 at 11:55 AM
Subject: another City Council meeting inclusion

Good morning again,

Wondering if the attached could be included as well. It's just a sheet describing the architectural significance of Kroehler Mansion. We felt that some things should be noted that haven't been mentioned.

Thanks,

Tom Ryan

KROEHLER MANSION – ARCHITECTURAL SIGNIFICANCE

THOMAS J. RYAN, JR. ~ ARCHITECT

1. SITE AND CLIENT SPECIFIC CUSTOM HOME BY ARCHITECT OR DESIGNER
2. NOT BUILT FROM A PATTERN BOOK
3. BALANCED COMPOSITION WITH INSET ENTRY POINTS ON TWO LEVELS
CREATING A BOXED-BAY EFFECT FROM THE STREET
4. APPROPRIATELY SCALED ATTIC SHED DORMER ROOFS
5. ELEVATED COVERED FRONT PORCH WITH PORTE-COCHERE (ORIGINAL STRUCTURE NOW REMOVED) WRAPPING AROUND TO MEET SUNROOM ON SOUTH SIDE
6. HIGH-STYLE EXTERIOR MATERIALS INCLUDING:

TILE ROOF (ORIGINAL MATERIAL NOW REMOVED)

COPPER FASCIA, GUTTERS, DOWNSPOUTS AND PORCH RAILING

BRICK EXTERIOR

LARGE WINDOW GROUPINGS

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Tom Ryan [REDACTED]
Sent: Wednesday, November 13, 2019 10:56 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Cc: Kay Severinsen; Keller, Ron; McElroy, Joe; Simon, Becky; Simon, Bill; Slupik, Ted
Subject: New life for Kroehler Mansion
Attachments: k1.jpg; k3.jpg; k7.jpg; k9.jpg; k10.jpg

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

Good morning Gabrielle,

The attached plan and perspective views show how the historic Kroehler Mansion would be a perfect candidate for adaptive reuse alongside a new single family home development that would contain twenty saleable units in total. This plan would make the property extremely valuable due to the number of new construction saleable units, unique historic feature and most importantly, its location.

The mansion would stay in place and be converted into a duplex with an attached garage for both owners at the south end accessed by an alley. No driveway would be necessary on the lawn (or garden?) to the west. The duplexes haven't been designed yet, but there are lots of possibilities.

The mansion sits on the biggest lot, open to the west, and with two home sites behind it.

The lawn in front of the mansion will afford the four properties that surround it 'distant' views in addition to the typical four corner lots found on most city blocks. Kroehler Mansion will always be in full or partial view from the street and surrounding houses.

The remaining 18 lots are comprised of sixteen 50'x150' lots and two 60.5'x100' lots for a grand total of twenty saleable units. All of the units on the site plan have been drawn to be 3,200 square feet, although there is room to make them larger. The 50'x150' lots are typical and the 60.5'x100' lots are just above the minimum 6000 square feet required in an R2 zoning district. No zoning changes would be required with this plan.

The alley doesn't run the full block, and doesn't need to. Homeowners would back out of there garage and drive out the same way the came in, and garbage gets picked up along the street.

Thanks,

Tom Ryan

THOMAS J. RYAN, JR. ~ ARCHITECT
&
NAPERVILLE PRESERVATION, INC.

ADAPTIVE REUSE OF THE HISTORIC KROEHLER MANSION

THOMAS J RYAN JR - ARCHITECT
&
NAPERVILLE PRESERVATION, INC

THOMAS J RYAN JR - ARCHITECT
&
NAPERVILLE PRESERVATION, INC

THOMAS J RYAN JR - ARCHITECT
&
NAPERVILLE PRESERVATION, INC

THOMAS J RYAN JR - ARCHITECT
&
NAPERVILLE PRESERVATION, INC

LANDMARKS
ILLINOIS

People saving places

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Sandra Rand
Chairman

Gary W. Anderson, AIA
Vice Chairman

Bonnie C. McDonald
President & CEO

Kathleen A. Swien
General Counsel

Frieda Ireland, CPA
Treasurer

Lee Brown, FAICP
Secretary

Michael Altheimer
Joseph M. Antunovich, FAIA
Erika Block
Tracy Dillard
Jean A. Follett
Joshua Freedland
Tim Frens, CPA
Jeffrey P. Goulette
Elle Ramel
Will Tippens

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Peter Babaian
Anthony Borich
Bob Eschbach
Ari Glass
Katie Kim
Chris Lee
Peter Limberger
Erica C. Meyer
Brad Moeller, AIA, LEED
Jeffrey Pezza
Ziad Salameh
Steve Schneider
Martin C. Tangora*
Cherryl T. Thomas
Blair Todt
Jack Tribbia
Christy Webber
Alex Wolking

*Life Director

CHAIRMAN EMERITUS

Richard A. Miller

30 N. Michigan Ave.
Suite 2020
Chicago, IL 60602
www.Landmarks.org

November 12, 2019

Mayor Steve Chirico and Members of City Council
City of Naperville
400 S. Eagle St.
Naperville, IL 60540

RE: Little Friends Appeal request for demolition of Kroehler Mansion

Dear Mayor Chirico and Members of City Council,

Landmarks Illinois urges you to not overturn the Historic Preservation Commission's (HPC) denial of a Certificate of Appropriateness (COA) for the requested demolition of the Kroehler Mansion. The HPC has agreed to demolition of all other structures on the nearly four-acre property owned by Little Friends, but determined the Kroehler Mansion to be significant and an important historic building within the Naperville Historic District. While we understand that the owner believes the inability to sell the property without approval for demolition of the mansion will lower the sale profit on the property, the "test" process set forth by City Council for evaluating demolition requests in the historic district has been properly carried out. The mansion not only meets the significance test, but based on the independent condition assessment, it is structurally sound. While the owner believes this is not relevant to its needs, we understand there has been a fair offer on the property that accounts for the mansion remaining a protected property. City Council's upholding of the HPC's decision will send a strong message that new development is desired, but must respect the city's heritage, its existing ordinances and respect the wishes of residents of the district.

As we understand it, the owner has alluded to possible legal action if denied a demolition permit for the Kroehler Mansion. The City has full standing to uphold its historic preservation ordinance and the protection of properties within its designated historic district. Denying a demolition permit by no means constitutes a taking as demonstrated in case law time and time again. (The Penn Central Transportation Co. v. New York City case on this topic has held as rule of law since 1978). Courts continue to uphold a local municipality's right, as with zoning, to landmark a property against an owner's consent and to protect those properties from demolition. (International College of Surgeons v. City of Chicago, 522 U.S. 156 (1997)). These are common land use decisions.

The HPC's permission granted to Little Friends to demolish all buildings on its property other than the Kroehler Mansion demonstrates appropriate evaluation of the merits of the buildings and sound land-use planning. It upholds the belief that the most historic building, found to be structurally sound, could never be built again today and should have the opportunity to be reused and wholly integrated into a larger development. If the building is rehabilitated for an income-producing use such as rental apartments, the developer has the choice to use the federal historic tax credit as a financing tool as well. If the house was wholly rehabilitated as a single-family home, or divided into multiple for-sale units, the property-tax assessment freeze is an incentive the developer could use to market the property or units with a higher sale value.

Little Friends has owned the Kroehler Mansion and understood its significance for many years, as well as the building's importance to the community and the historic district. Overturning the HPC's denial of a demolition permit will send a strong message to other residents of this district that even if a property meets the standards set forth by the City Council, that significant properties in the historic district are ultimately not protected. We hope you accept the HPC's recommendation of denying demolition of this irreplaceable historic building and not allow such a precedent.

Sincerely,

Bonnie McDonald
President & CEO

cc: Doug Krieger, City Manager
Allison Laff, Deputy Director, TED Business Group
Kevin Peterson, Chair, Historic Preservation Commission
Gabrielle Mattingly, Assistant Planner

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, November 12, 2019 2:23 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

cynthia barratt
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Bryan Ogg [REDACTED]
Sent: Tuesday, November 12, 2019 10:18 AM
To: Laff, Allison; Mattingly, Gabrielle; Brodhead, Judy; Sullivan, Theresa; White, Benny; Coyne, Kevin; Krummen, John; Hinterlong, Paul; Gustin, Patty; Kelly, Patrick
Subject: Kroehler "Carriage" House

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

Dear all,

I am very happy that the HPC unanimously agreed that the Kroehler home did not meet any of the qualifications for demolition. The greater community of Naperville should not have to suffer another loss in an important neighborhood due to years of deferred maintenance issues and inflated financial opportunity. I want to thank the members of the HPC for their bold stance and support of the Historic District and the preservation ordinance (Gabby, that is why you are copied here, please pass along, thank you).

I was disappointed that the carriage house was not seriously considered for preservation. The carriage house retains many of the original architectural elements and is directly related to the personality and history of the Kroehler Estate. The Kroehler property was an estate; it was in fact the largest, most substantial home in the neighborhood complete with a tennis court, swimming pool, lavish gardens (both vegetable and floral), a greenhouse, etc. The name carriage is in fact somewhat erroneous as Peter Kroehler's love of and possession of automobiles is well documented. I doubt the building ever had horses or carriages in it! The garage was not only the home of the Kroehler vehicles, but also, on the second floor, a series of husband and wife teams who, over the years provided chauffeur, gardener, cook and maid services for the Kroehler and later Frech families.

Allison, as a city staffer, I hope you will consider any plans that developers may present for the Kroehler property must include saving the garage to the north of the house. Economically it would be easier to move the garage closer to the home than to move the home anywhere and demo the garage. I suspect a new family who is willing to take on the remodeling of the home will also appreciate using the same Kroehler garage for a second floor studio, mother-in-law's suite, or additional income.

In addition, I encourage council to uphold the decision of the HPC, to honor the intent of the historic preservation ordinances, and preserve the integrity of Naperville's ONLY historic district. The preservation of Naperville history seems to have taken a back seat, which grieves any historian, local or otherwise. It is not the hoarding of our PAST that is paramount, it is the protection of our FUTURE. What will future Napervillians or visitors to Naperville think if we allow our past to be erased? Are we doing enough to tell the stories of our community in the PRESENT? There are great minds, creative solutions, and wonderful opportunities for everyone if we will only listen.

Thank you Allison, Gabby, and council members for your time, I remain
Sincerely,
Bryan Ogg

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 11, 2019 9:09 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kelly Carr

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 11, 2019 2:01 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Maureen Rybak

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] LISLE, Illinois, 60532-3336

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 11, 2019 9:57 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Cynthia Robinson
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Riverside, Illinois, 60546

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 11, 2019 7:44 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Carole Hsrmon

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 10, 2019 9:13 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Francesca Rabchuk

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 10, 2019 9:17 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nancy Adams
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 9, 2019 9:16 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jane Plass
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 9, 2019 9:10 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Julie Milavec
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 9, 2019 9:04 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jolanta Radzik
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 9, 2019 9:03 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Medjo Me Zengue
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 9, 2019 8:38 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Michelle Roubal
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 9, 2019 9:48 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Marcia Milligan

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 9, 2019 12:42 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

My daughter has been in a social group at Little Friends for 5 years. It takes place in a dorm. It is so old that there is even a dumbwaiter. There is no elevator. One of my friends had to stop going there partially because it was such a struggle to get her stroller up 5 flights of stairs. I know several parents that have to carry their children up and down the steep steps because the children are either too young or too scared to climb them on their own. The rooms are old dorm rooms and are tiny. They are either too hot or too cold. It is next to impossible to regulate the temperature. The waiting room is tiny and crowded. Little Friends desperately needs a new updated campus. If they are forced to re-create a mega-mansion, the price of the groups will most likely go up. I pay out of pocket and don't know if I could afford to keep my daughter in them if that happens. Little Friends has helped her immensely and that would be a shame. Prioritizing an old mansion over children with special needs does not seem right to me. If it is so important, is there no other way to raise the money to restore it?

Megan Roche

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Carol Stream, Illinois, 60188-2259

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 8, 2019 10:08 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Cari Hotchkiss
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 8, 2019 8:50 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Christine Wood
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 10:51 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Stephanie Savage
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 7:48 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kathy Simpson
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 6:29 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

As a speech language pathologist, and as a suburban neighbor I am so upset. I have met families who relocated to other states to receive services at Little Friends. Your village has the Naper Settlement, North Central College, and people whose money cant bandage their remorse that to propel Naperville to its current status they literally gutted their history.

As far as I can see, the richer the area becomes the more disappointed I have become. When you think about your “branding” maybe think along the lines of countless CEOs this past year. Try to better your community!

Naperville’s branding could use some good PR right now as far as I see it. You appear to have accrued enough wealth that racism is ok, your kids are on drugs and committing suicide, and families are being economically forced out and to put the grinch on top you are fighting against a non profit who serves kids you likely turn a blind eye to. You should be Branding yourself better or you look like miserly old skinflints heck, you should be building Little Friends a state of the art center and thanking them for helping some of your neighbors!

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the “branding” questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a “family friendly” community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission’s order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sayard Bass

 Downers Grove, Illinois, 60516

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 4:40 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Matthew Verscheure

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] San Francisco, California, 94124

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 4:09 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Karen Haack

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60563

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 1:38 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Heidi Popovich
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Glen Ellyn, Illinois, 60137

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 1:19 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

Dear Mayor Chirico, members of the City Council, and members of the Historic Preservation Commission,

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are an historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Best regards,

Elizabeth Nicholson

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 1:11 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tim Skirvin

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 1:00 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Diana Canna

[REDACTED]
Warrenville, Illinois, 60555

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 12:30 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Thomas Losiniecki
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] BIG ROCK, Illinois, 60511

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, November 7, 2019 12:29 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Belinda Cheek

Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Wednesday, November 6, 2019 11:11 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing in regards to the very unfortunate decision of the Naperville City Council to deny Little Friends the Certificate of Appropriateness (COA) needed to demolish all buildings on its campus.

All parties involved in denying the COA need to ask themselves one simple question: "Is one building of questionable historic value worth more than helping hundreds of vulnerable special needs children and young adults obtain the schooling and therapy they need to reach their potential and become productive members of the community?"

If you truly believe the answer to that question is anything but "No" then shame on you.

Do what is right for the whole community, not just the outspoken few in the historic district.

Prove that Naperville is a "family friendly" city by doing what is right for the community.

Given recent highly public incidents in Naperville that have damaged its reputation, granting Little Friends the COA would the City regain some goodwill it has lost.

Do what is right. Choose the needs of vulnerable children over those of a few wealthy homeowners.

Thank you.
Dan Rybak

██████████
████████████████████

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Wednesday, November 6, 2019 10:44 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sophal Rybak
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Wednesday, November 6, 2019 7:48 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Bob Klaeren

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Wednesday, November 6, 2019 2:32 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Colleen Lareau
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Wednesday, November 6, 2019 1:39 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Susan Johanson
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, November 5, 2019 11:38 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kim Coyne

Naperville, Illinois

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, November 5, 2019 10:42 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nikki Bozzano
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, November 5, 2019 10:36 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tammie Svestka
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, November 5, 2019 5:30 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Preeti Tuteja

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, November 5, 2019 11:39 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Beth Owano
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, November 5, 2019 8:15 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Cullen Stewart

[REDACTED] Glen Ellyn, Illinois, 60137

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, November 5, 2019 7:51 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

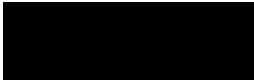

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Cindy Romanowski
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, November 5, 2019 7:47 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Cathy Bolger

[REDACTED] Wheaton, Illinois, 60189

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, November 5, 2019 12:52 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Hougaard
[REDACTED]

Woodridge, Illinois, 60517

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 4, 2019 9:31 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Deborah Brenner
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 4, 2019 8:51 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

My brother has been a client of Little Friends Inc. for his entire adult life. They have consistently worked to make sure he has the best quality of life possible with his disabilities, even when the State of Illinois was not paying their bills. So I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Susan Dudek

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 4, 2019 6:54 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Ryan McFarland

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 4, 2019 4:14 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Debi Lockwood
[REDACTED]

Plainfield, Illinois, 60585

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 4, 2019 11:22 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Emily Kenny
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 4, 2019 9:52 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Camille Smith

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, November 4, 2019 7:52 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Anne Harris

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 7:41 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Barb Terdic
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 7:07 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Barbara Briggs

Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 5:25 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sharon Andersen

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 4:15 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Christina Witter
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 4:01 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tim Babovac
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 3:08 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Elizabeth Smith
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 3:03 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Margo Andrews
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Orland Park, Illinois, 60462

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 2:17 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Larry Deguisne
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 12:46 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Rzeszutko
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 10:44 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

James Tepper

Aurora, Illinois, 60502

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 10:39 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mike Molinaro

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 10:22 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Elizabeth Russell-Jones

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 10:05 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I taught at Naper Elementary before I retired. Naperville is a stronger community because Little Friends is a resource for parents and families. However, they do not have the benefit of raising money through property taxes to do renovations like our school districts.

A community is judged by how it treats the those in need of a helping hand. Naperville has a track record, but I think it will be tarnished if you don't help Little Friends. They need your help to be able to move and continue their good work helping children and it doesn't cost the city a penny.

You created the regulations that have caused this problem and uncertainty, it is in your power to make sure Little Friends gets what they need.

Thank you,
Pam Skarr
— — —

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Pam Skarr

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 7:31 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kathy Przekwas
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 6:44 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Aubrey Parr
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 6:40 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Aubrey Parr
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 6:28 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jennifer Ono
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 5:56 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

My 4 year old son attends Little Friends 3 times a week. In the time that he has been attending we have seen so much development that was not occurring in a traditional preschool setting. They work with what they have but I know with a new facility they could have an even greater impact.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

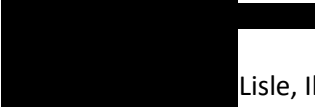

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Brett Rotelli

Lisle, Illinois, 60532

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 5:36 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tamara Rotelli
[REDACTED]

isle, Illinois, 60532

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 12:40 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Amy Shea
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 12:27 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Janet Reynolds

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, November 3, 2019 12:20 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sue McCarthy

[REDACTED]
Woodridge, Illinois, 60517

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 9:01 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

AnnMarie Fauske
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 8:54 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Beth Norton
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] LAKE BLUFF, Illinois, 60044

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 4:42 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Lynn Filla-Clark

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Woodridge, Illinois, 60517

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 3:56 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

My wife was a teacher before she retired. I cannot understand why Naperville would value a school building more than the children the school serves.

Naperville is known for being a great community. Taking money from a school for children with autism for re-creation of a mansion is not consistent with this reputation. Do the right thing!

- Gary Skarr

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Gary Skarr

Naperville, Idaho, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 12:38 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tracey Ploskonka
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 12:41 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

karen Supel
[REDACTED]

AURORA, Illinois, 60504

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 11:10 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Ken Kaczmarz
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] La grange park, Illinois, 60526

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 10:44 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Terry Harper
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 10:16 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

William Mitchell
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 10:39 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

mary hart
[REDACTED]

Darien, Illinois, 60561

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 9:38 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Scott Leonard
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 9:20 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

George Arvai

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 8:40 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Gina Kappler
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 9:12 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

I have two children with autism and one with a social communication disorder that have been receiving services though Little Friends for over 5 years now. The level of staff and expertise cannot be matched anywhere else. We need this amazing place to stay open and not burderened by this historic battle. Please take into full consideration all the families that will be personally hurt by this decision.

Nancy Wakeman

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Plainfield, Illinois, 60585

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 8:38 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kathy Fischer
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] North Riverside, Illinois, 60546

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 8:23 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Lori Prokes
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 7:17 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Krista Skach

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, November 2, 2019 1:06 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Alivia Mekeel
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Joliet, Illinois, 60435

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 10:51 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jeanne Nortier
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 10:27 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Gloria Velino
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 9:31 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nina Rosko

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 7:40 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jamie Fries

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 5:49 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kristin Szczesny

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Batavia, Illinois, 60510

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 5:48 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

R J

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 4:50 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Darcy Hermann

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 4:08 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Victoria Delgado

Chicago, Illinois, 60645

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 3:39 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Katie Wood
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 3:34 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Debra LeBeau
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 3:32 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nanette Carlmark Dahlke

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 3:16 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Darcy Doetch
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 3:08 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Piller
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 2:45 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Danielle Hardesty
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 2:30 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Heidi Pawelczyk
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 12:54 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Gloria Deguisne
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 11:41 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Betty Landorf
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60563

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 10:04 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

I recommend for the above action on behalf of Little Friends.

Jarvis Alexander

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Lisle, Illinois, 60532

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 9:54 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Eileen Justh
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 9:05 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jill Schwartz

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 8:43 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

David Justh
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, November 1, 2019 7:40 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tom Connors

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 8:36 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Marilyn Johnson
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 8:19 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Barbara Kanzler
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 8:14 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sandra Laxner
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 6:59 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

William Boyk
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60563

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 5:56 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nancy Boyk

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60563

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 4:35 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nancy Cowell
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 4:16 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Liz Cochiaro

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 4:11 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kathleen Kersten

[REDACTED]
Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 4:01 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jennifer Rembrecht
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville's, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 3:34 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Stephanie Galloway Toreson
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 3:22 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kenneth Adamik

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Glen Ellyn, Illinois, 60137

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 3:21 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Lou Petritz
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60563

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 2:49 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Angela Angelillo
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 2:25 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Patricia Rimac

Wheaton, Illinois, 60189

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 2:14 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Taylor

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 2:10 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Marilyn Mason

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 2:08 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Terry Wilkins
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 2:05 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

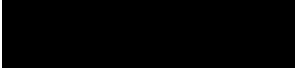

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Glenn Boyle

Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 2:03 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

June Barnard
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:59 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Terrance Flynn

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:59 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Caroline Spreitzer
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:56 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Martina Svehla

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:50 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Battetham
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:46 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Katherine Howell

Woodridge, Illinois, 60517

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:43 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Becky Chaplin
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:42 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Karla Harmon

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:38 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

George Collins
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Vero Beach, Florida, 32963

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:35 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Linda Boyle
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:34 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

gale ganet
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 1:03 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

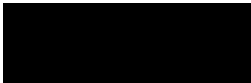

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jennifer Croasdale
[REDACTED]

Cicero, Illinois, 60804

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 10:09 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Carolyn Stefani
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 31, 2019 7:40 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Neil Pendleton
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Western Springs, Illinois, 60558

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Wednesday, October 30, 2019 10:27 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Brian Scott
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Wednesday, October 30, 2019 8:46 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Dennis Kistic
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Wednesday, October 30, 2019 8:44 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Kostic
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 11:11 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Catrina Green
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 10:44 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

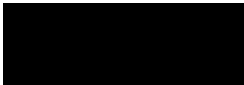

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Christina Kitchel
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 10:01 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

James Pendleton
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 9:37 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Elizabeth Karnik

60189

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 8:52 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Erin Martens
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 8:50 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Danielle Sherry

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Illinois, 60004

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 8:42 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Taylor Minger

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 8:41 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jill Ludlam
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 4:59 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Lindsey Graham
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 3:49 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Matt Doyle

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 3:22 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Stacia Taylor

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 2:44 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Colleen Clark

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 2:33 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Karen Trybus
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 2:15 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Shannon Greene Robb
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 2:05 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Candace Lawrence
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 2:04 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jason Nagel
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 1:20 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mark Mellens

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 12:01 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Rosario Arteaga

Illinois

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 11:53 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Benjamin Delgado
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Lombard, Illinois, 60148

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 10:41 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Pat Loy
[REDACTED]

Downers Grove, Illinois, 60516

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 10:11 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sally Allred

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Woodridge, Illinois, 60517

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 9:08 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Raymond Lafser

Naperville, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 8:00 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Eddie Fernandez

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 7:52 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Alison Kucera
[REDACTED]

Naperville

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 6:38 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Patrick Ryan

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Geneva, Illinois, 60134

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Tuesday, October 29, 2019 1:36 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kaarina Lebrun
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 10:50 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Janae Lemmert

Illinois

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 10:28 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kaity Weiland
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 10:09 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jennifer Tosch
[REDACTED]

Countryside, Illinois, 60525

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 10:07 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Srinivas Sista
[REDACTED]

Westmont, Illinois, 60559

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 10:05 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

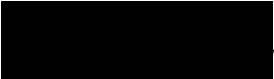

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Lalitha Darbha
[REDACTED]

Westmont, Illinois, 60559

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 9:57 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

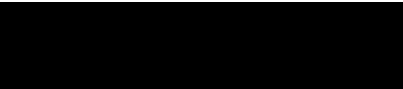

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Beth Fernandez

Woodridge, Illinois, 60517

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 9:51 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Alicia Ziembra
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 9:50 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sonja Meyer
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 9:47 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jennette Ziemba
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 9:01 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Suzanne Sherman

Naperville, Illinois, 69540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:54 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Augustine Perez
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:30 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Margaret Williams

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:21 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Deanna Wrijght
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:16 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

Little Friends has been a godsend to our family. They have looked after our autistic son with the care, focus and understanding not found in traditional schools. Little Friends have been successful with our son because they took the time and devoted the proper resources to meet his individual needs.

I know that I am among a large and collective chorus of parents breathing a sigh of relief that this organization was available for their children.

Previously in the traditional school setting, our son was perceived to be difficult and acting out when in fact he was doing his very best to meet the rigors of a class led by instructors that did not understand nor care to learn about his special needs. The instructors did not know that executive function of the autistic student's thought process might be muddled and he might forget his pencil for class from time to time. For this sin, he would be marked deficient for the entire day. This would upset him greatly as he was trying with all of his might to be just like the other students. As parents, we struggled to change the hearts and minds of these instructors to understand our son's autism disorder. After many fruitless meetings with instructional staff, and at our wit's end, we finally learned about Little Friends. Since his enrollment two years ago, our son is eager to learn and much happier in his current surroundings. I attribute this to a learned and certified staff who are specialists in dealing with special needs children.

Little Friends is an institution that needs the governmental latitude to continue and create more success stories for the students that require additional help in getting over some of the limitations that were imposed at birth.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources

away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Curt Ackman

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:10 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Karin Stephan

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:09 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Karin Stephan

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:07 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Ron Stephan
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Kingman, Arizona, 86401

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:04 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Rosie Perez
[REDACTED]

Illinois

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 7:56 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nicole Smulkstys

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Glen Ellyn, Illinois, 60137

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 7:42 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I really hope that the Naperville City council and Historic Preservation Commission are not saying that a run down old building is more important than Naperville's most vulnerable residents. Yes, history is important, and the old houses near downtown and the historic district are wonderful testaments to Naperville's legacy. However, there is a living legacy that can only fully grow if the past is let go in the shape of a single old building that is now doing more harm than good.

Jennine Harkins
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 7:08 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Cecilia Radwan
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 6:40 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Inaki Gabirondo
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 6:35 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Cindy Gabirondo
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 6:25 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Alex Tziortzis
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 6:21 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tracy Tziortzis
[REDACTED]

Palatine, Illinois, 60067

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 6:04 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Francesca Masi
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 5:46 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sarah Stanton

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 5:07 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Cynithia Cosby
[REDACTED]

WOODRIDGE, Illinois, 60517

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 4:43 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Brenda Ulrich

Illinois

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 3:53 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Shannon
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 3:50 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Christina Young

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 3:33 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Diana Cano

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Orland Park, Illinois, 60467

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 3:28 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mark Galati

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 3:23 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Shaina Niketopoulos
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] West Chicago, Illinois, 60185

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 2:40 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

As a parent of a child who has attended Little Friends for the past fifteen years and benefited from this fine school I am appalled that the City of Naperville, the city council, and the Historic Preservation Commission has put such restrictions on Little Friend as they try to sell their current property.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Mueller

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Wheaton, Illinois, 60189

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 2:08 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

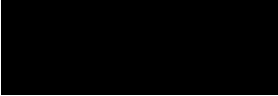

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Michael Lennertz
[REDACTED]

ORLAND PARK, Illinois, 60462-2740

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 2:09 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Dawn Losiniecki

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] Big Rock, Illinois, 60511

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 2:07 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

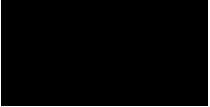

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tami Harkins
[REDACTED]

Lemont, Illinois, 60439

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 1:52 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Catherine Minota
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 1:19 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Laura Weiland
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 1:10 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Lauren Minger
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 12:51 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Anna Lobdell
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 12:44 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

gale ganet

Naperville

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 12:14 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Andrea Otten

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 11:58 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Estelle Brooks

[REDACTED]

Brookfield, Illinois, 60513

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 11:33 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Russ Weiland

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 11:18 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sara Connelly
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 11:14 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Karen Rivara
[REDACTED]

Saint Charles, Illinois, 60175

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 10:48 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Maurissa Murakami

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Downers Grove, Illinois, 60515

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 10:14 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Natasha Marriner
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 9:23 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Carrie Johnson
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 9:22 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Bobby Kallien
[REDACTED]

Aurora, Illinois, 60504

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 9:19 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Devon Moon

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 9:12 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

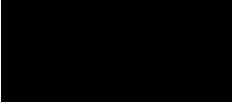

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sarah Czopek
[REDACTED]

Woodridge, Illinois, 60517

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:59 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

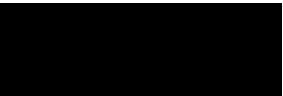

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Andrea Boll
[REDACTED]

Downers Grove, Illinois, 60515

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:52 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Rebecca Klaff

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:46 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Allyson Gray
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:43 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Aaron Setchell
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:43 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sandra Hilger

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:41 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Erin Setchell
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:40 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Cathy Lavin
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Sugar Grove, Illinois, 60554

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:34 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Rodney Germann
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:29 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Taylor

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 8:08 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Bethany Bachmann
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 7:51 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Susan Iona

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Westmont, Illinois, 60559

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Monday, October 28, 2019 12:07 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Laurie Meyers
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 5:09 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

To NAPERVILLE City Council:

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

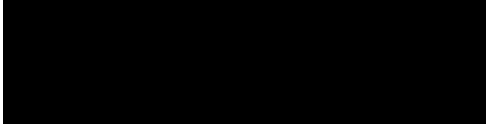

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Your ruling seems unreasonable. I urge you to reconsider,

Sincerely, Becky Lindsay

 Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 3:31 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

carolanne conwell

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 3:09 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Stephanie Savage

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Woodrige, Illinois, 60517

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 1:58 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Timothy Conway

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 1:55 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Debbie Conwell
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 1:46 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Hailey Kissane

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 1:12 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tracy Langan
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 10:46 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Esser

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 10:46 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Robert Hicks
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 10:45 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

Put the needs of children before a property!

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Maria Jaume

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 10:18 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Maria Santiago
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
LOMBARD, Illinois, 60148

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 9:46 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Laureen Baumgartner

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Aurora, Illinois, 60502

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 9:25 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Pam Dreyer
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 8:43 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kathy Bezdek

Naperville

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 8:34 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. My daughter received services there for 2 years and is now thriving and applying to college.

This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 7:22 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Barry Poll

Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 7:20 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Robin Jurczak
[REDACTED]

Naperville, 60563

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 7:15 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kim Baumgartner
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Sunday, October 27, 2019 7:12 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Peggy Poll

Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 10:50 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nicole Jurjovec
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 10:16 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Paula Costello

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 10:12 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

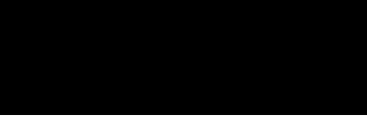

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Lauren Bezdek

Naperville, Illinois, 60563

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 9:13 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Judith Ashe

Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 8:55 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Glynn

Downers Grove, Illinois, 60515

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 8:25 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Michael Naset

Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 7:44 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Karen Barenbrugge
kbarenbrugge@yahoo.com

(630)334-3119

1436 Terrance drive, Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 7:19 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kathleen Lutgen
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 7:19 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nate McPherson
[REDACTED]

Plainfield, Illinois, 60586

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 7:14 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Molly Schmidt
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 7:08 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mike Skarr

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 6:25 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Brooke Baumgartner
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 6:25 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Brooke Baumgartner
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 6:24 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Brooke Baumgartner
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 6:09 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tom Wood
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 5:37 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Heather Sweenwy
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 4:57 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kelly Deboeuf

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 3:16 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tom Priddy
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 2:57 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tom Pendziszewski
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 1:56 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Hunter Gentry
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 1:40 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

John Schmitt
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 1:29 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mike Dominguez

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 12:03 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mike Bytner

Naperville, Illinois, 60563

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 11:56 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Deborah Walsh

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 12:00 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Ann Mackey
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 10:32 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kathy Maldonado

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 10:06 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Brian Pugliese

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 9:31 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Robert Wall

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 9:15 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Anthony Losurdo
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 9:12 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Chris Iacovelli

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 8:40 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nancy Wieszcholek

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 8:53 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Geoffrey Roehll

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 8:38 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Angie Baird
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 8:35 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Maureen Cummings
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 8:27 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Lee Fennell
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 7:55 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jennifer Reed
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 7:25 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing as a citizen of Naperville AND as a patron of Little Friends. My 12 year old son receives services from this amazing organization. I want to express and cannot emphasize enough my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Dave Miech

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED], Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 7:14 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sandra Henderson
[REDACTED]

Villa Park, Illinois, 60181

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 6:53 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Alexander Ruble
[REDACTED]

Aurora, Illinois, 60504

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 6:47 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Roger Wood

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 6:28 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Joseph Ruble
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60563

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 5:27 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sara Buresh

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 5:28 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jenny Potanos

[REDACTED] Carol Stream, Illinois, 60188

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 2:53 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Susan Bryan
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 1:54 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jennifer Hartwig
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Saturday, October 26, 2019 12:12 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Amanda Kero

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 11:22 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kimberly Cummings
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 11:01 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sharon Keenan
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 10:48 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Michelle Rafacz
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 10:36 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

I am a past employee of Little Friends and was always impressed by the support Naperville gave to Little Friends. Please do not turn your back now on this organization. The future for many students and residents is much more important than old buildings.

Marjorie Bannon

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 10:34 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

To add to this, I am a teacher at this school and serve 6 BEAUTIFUL and special k-3rd graders. I am in a classroom that does not fit our needs. My students have enough struggles as it is but adding a work environment that is cramped and extremely hot makes it very hard to make progress. These students deserve to have a place that they are comfortable, safe and enabled to make amazing progress. As we continue to talk about logistics, I urge you to think about the many lives you are effecting by keeping us in the place we are in now. It is important to give these students all the tools they need to succeed.

Sarah Wood

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 10:26 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jennifer Boisvert
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 10:23 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Shannon Gilfillan

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 10:13 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Terry Flynn

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 10:04 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nikki Schrader
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 9:59 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Katie Wood

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 9:52 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sandra Hope

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 9:23 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Liz Mekeel

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 8:58 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Bob Waropay
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 8:57 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Brian McGreevy m

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60563

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 8:50 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Darlene Kwasniewski
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 8:44 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Todd Vacek

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 8:43 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kimberly Sekhon
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 8:40 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kayla Schultheis
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 8:34 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Please do not do this.

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 8:20 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tiffany Sieroslowski

Illinois, 60056

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 8:17 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

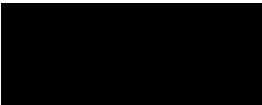

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kimberly Wightkin
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 8:10 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nancy Regul

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 7:50 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Leanora Schloesser

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 7:41 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Ahed Hussein

North Aurora, Illinois, 60542

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 7:39 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Deborah Bown

Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 7:25 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sandra Henderson

Villa Park, Illinois, 60181

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 7:24 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sandra Henderson

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Villa Park, Illinois, 60181

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 7:03 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Natalie Booty

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] NAPERVILLE, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 6:57 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Stephanie Tolliver
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 6:35 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Megan Plackett

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED], Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 6:21 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kristina Stackhouse

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 6:19 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jackie Johnson
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 6:12 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jennifer Lewand

Naperville, Illinois

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 6:09 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Karen Rauch
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 5:37 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Amanda Adamik

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Glen Ellyn, Illinois, 60137

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 5:36 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Megan O'Connell
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 5:11 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Barb Whiteaker

Palos Park, Illinois, 60464

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:52 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kimberly DeBoer
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:41 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kathy Bytner
[REDACTED]

Wheaton, Illinois, 60189

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:31 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Laura Plekavic
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:31 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jim Cummings
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:30 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Josh Johanson
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:26 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Dave Springfloat

Illinois, 60564

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:25 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Angela Garcia
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:24 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

We need to support little friends mission. My son has autism and Little Friends were the first ones there for us. With the ever growing rate of autism we will need Little Friends in the future more than ever. People are more important than buildings...

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Michelle Tsioles

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:21 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Lauren Swaufield
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:15 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kristina Nammari
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:11 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jenna Johnson
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:08 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kevin Conlin

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:06 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

JUDI GREENWOOD
[REDACTED]

Hilton Head Island, South Carolina, 29926-1858

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:00 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Shannon Perrino
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 4:00 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Shannon Perrino
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:59 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Susan Edgeworth
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:58 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nancy Knott

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:58 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. My middle daughter Katherine has been a Little Friends client for more than ten years and I've personally seen the caring and excellent work they do!!! I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Larry Loehr

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:46 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Rebeca Kitchen

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:45 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Robert Burns

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] Bartlett, Illinois, 60103

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:38 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Danielle Tagye
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:33 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Tina Briggs

Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:27 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Laurie McCollum

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Romeoville, Illinois, 60446

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:26 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Becky Pundy
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:25 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kelly Rooney
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:23 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kelly Finnegan
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:23 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Eileen Gwizdala
[REDACTED]

Richmond, Illinois, 60071

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:21 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Michelle Dugan
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:19 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Katie Maloney
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:18 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Ellen Smith

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:12 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Marquitta Harris
[REDACTED]

Downers Grove, Illinois, 60515

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:10 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mary Schultz

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:07 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Walter Guy

Lombard, Illinois

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:07 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jenni Hulsey
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:05 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Linda Michalski
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:05 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kelly Becker

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:04 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Karen Apicella

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:04 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Patti Boheme
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 3:03 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Paul Piraino
[REDACTED]

Schaumburg, Illinois, 60194

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:57 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too. My son has benefited over the years from many of Little Friends services and programs and I believe other children, young adults and adults with autism should have the same opportunity.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Carol Schoder

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:53 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Suzanne Otto
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:48 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jennifer Kulp

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:35 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

Do the right thing. You know this is important to so many families and individuals who depend on the services Little Friends provide.

Put yourself in their position and think about the short and long term effects your decision will have on the immediate and extended families that Little Friends provides service to.

You were put in a position of power to serve your community. Surely you can think of alternative methods of raising funds to accomplish your end result. Why even consider putting a non profit organization in the position you have put them in?

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Matt Simms

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:33 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kristina Nammari
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:32 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

karyn charvat

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:21 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Beth Praetz
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:21 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Marion Zirolì

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:14 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year(including mine), with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Dave Stuart

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:05 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Alan Zienty
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:05 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Gail Simms
[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Downers Grove, Illinois, 60516

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:05 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nicole Zienty
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:00 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Shawn McCarthy
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 2:00 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Anita Kostbade
[REDACTED]

Minooka, Illinois, 60447

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:59 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jama Wall

Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:48 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Ronald Biegun
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:48 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jacque Clermont
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:46 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Chelsea Gieseke
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:45 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Delores Biegun
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:44 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

People's needs should ALWAYS come before buildings.

Dawn Marchut

 Aurora, Illinois, 60502

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:43 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Taylor Johns
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:41 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Kristine Legler
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:36 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Lauren Guzman
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:33 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Mark Burnstein
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:28 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Louise Henderson
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:28 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Debra McGuffey

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:21 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Nicole Fox

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:19 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Anita Anderson

[REDACTED] Aurora, Illinois, 60505-5002

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:13 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Gloria Velino
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 1:07 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Katie Johnson
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 12:56 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Jason Altenbern
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 12:53 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Erin Boyle

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 12:46 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Clark Smith

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 12:40 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Sue Martens
[REDACTED]

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 12:39 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrentonville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Liz Johnson
[REDACTED]

Naperville, Illinois, 60540

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Friday, October 25, 2019 12:33 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to express my disappointment that the City of Naperville has ordered Little Friends to re-create an estate at their campus as a condition of attempting to move. Little Friends has testified and produced evidence that it will not receive the resources it needs to partially fund its transformation plan and move to Warrenville if this condition is imposed by the City.

Little Friends serves nearly 950 families per year, with the students served coming from 52 school districts across eight counties. This is a time for the City Council to demonstrate what its values are. Does the city's leadership value the structure of a school for children and young adults with special needs, more than it values the needs of students the school serves? Given the "branding" questions that seem to be a part of current Council meetings, how would a decision like this affect the perception of Naperville being a "family friendly" community? The answer to this question is obvious.

The Historic Preservation Commission's order is out-of-character with the economic reasonableness Naperville has shown to other property owners, but Little Friends is not a single-family home or building developer. They are a historic and pioneering institution that serves and helps some of the neediest and most vulnerable in our society and community. A process that would result in the City of Naperville forcing a diversion of their limited financial resources away from the programs they are offer to support the people they serve is faulty, and I urge the City Council to correct this mistake.

In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. To best serve their students, Little Friends need to move to a modern educational facility.

Little Friends has testified that they cannot afford to buy and equip their new school, without the resources generated from selling their land at market rate. Because of this, it is my opinion that it is not appropriate for the City of Naperville to force Little Friends to lose money from the sale of its largest asset for the purpose of re-creating a mega-mansion.

I urge the City Council to correct this mistake and affirm the COA to demolish the campus in its entirety. I value Little Friends and their contributions to our society and community, and I hope you do too.

Please do not harm Little Friends and the students Little Friends serves. Grant Little Friends' request and overturn the order requiring the re-creation of a mega-mansion at the campus.

Derek McDaniel

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2019 7:18 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to urge the City of Naperville to consider all the facts and circumstances as it decides whether to impose costly preservation restrictions on Little Friends' legacy and outdated campus. I support Little Friends' request to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness, because they need the financial resources to invest in their people and programming.

Historic preservation is a worthy goal, but preservation should weigh the significance of the specific property versus the costs associated with re-creation. In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. That is why it is appropriate for the City to grant permission for demolition of the campus.

Little Friends has been at the legacy campus for nearly 44 years and they are longest user of the property. Little Friends serves nearly 800 families per year. It would not be unreasonable to say that they have had more of an impact on our community and families than any other previous occupant of the property.

I do not believe it is appropriate for the City of Naperville to impose costly restrictions on the property that will require the diversion of financial resources away from Little Friends' people and programs, and into this legacy property for the purpose of preservation or re-creation of an estate like setting.

Someone has to shoulder the enormous costs associated with any restriction imposed. It is clear that no government or agency wants to bear the burden, as they have not responded to the offers to buy the property at market value. Why would it be appropriate for the City to force Little Friends to lose the economic benefits of their property? I don't believe that it is.

Families across the region are counting on Naperville's leaders. Individuals from 52 different school districts benefit through Little Friends' programming. A costly restriction that hurts Little Friends is not consistent with Naperville's brand, heritage or the purpose of a historical preservation policy. Something appropriate for the neighborhood can take this legacy campus' place.

I support Little Friends and I hope you will too by allowing them to sell their legacy campus without restriction.

Lawrence Gorman

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Ann Hahn-Baiyor [REDACTED]
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2019 2:25 PM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: COA to demolish Kroehler Mansion

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am unable to attend the HPC meeting tonight, but would like to enter my views.

I speak in opposition to the destruction of this historically significant building. This building sits within the historic district and the same rules that apply to homeowners should apply to Little friends, as well. I wonder why there would continue to be an historic district if opting out is granted.

I believe there is a win-win-win solution and time and effort should be spent to explore other uses for this building. Some that come to mind- a Bed and Breakfast, a Community Center, a Museum. Or the building could be moved to Naper Settlement.

The Historic District was created to preserve and protect the past, I believe that maintaining this very significant building is very important in that effort.

Thank you,

Ann Hahn-Baiyor
[REDACTED]
Naperville

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2019 11:49 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to urge the City of Naperville to consider all the facts and circumstances as it decides whether to impose costly preservation restrictions on Little Friends' legacy and outdated campus. I support Little Friends' request to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness, because they need the financial resources to invest in their people and programming.

Historic preservation is a worthy goal, but preservation should weigh the significance of the specific property versus the costs associated with re-creation. In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. That is why it is appropriate for the City to grant permission for demolition of the campus.

Little Friends has been at the legacy campus for nearly 44 years and they are longest user of the property. Little Friends serves nearly 800 families per year. It would not be unreasonable to say that they have had more of an impact on our community and families than any other previous occupant of the property.

I do not believe it is appropriate for the City of Naperville to impose costly restrictions on the property that will require the diversion of financial resources away from Little Friends' people and programs, and into this legacy property for the purpose of preservation or re-creation of an estate like setting.

Someone has to shoulder the enormous costs associated with any restriction imposed. It is clear that no government or agency wants to bear the burden, as they have not responded to the offers to buy the property at market value. Why would it be appropriate for the City to force Little Friends to lose the economic benefits of their property? I don't believe that it is.

Families across the region are counting on Naperville's leaders. Individuals from 52 different school districts benefit through Little Friends' programming. A costly restriction that hurts Little Friends is not consistent with Naperville's brand, heritage or the purpose of a historical preservation policy. Something appropriate for the neighborhood can take this legacy campus' place.

I support Little Friends and I hope you will too by allowing them to sell their legacy campus without restriction.

Leonel Herrera

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2019 11:26 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to urge the City of Naperville to consider all the facts and circumstances as it decides whether to impose costly preservation restrictions on Little Friends' legacy and outdated campus. I support Little Friends' request to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness, because they need the financial resources to invest in their people and programming.

Historic preservation is a worthy goal, but preservation should weigh the significance of the specific property versus the costs associated with re-creation. In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. That is why it is appropriate for the City to grant permission for demolition of the campus.

Little Friends has been at the legacy campus for nearly 44 years and they are longest user of the property. Little Friends serves nearly 800 families per year. It would not be unreasonable to say that they have had more of an impact on our community and families than any other previous occupant of the property.

I do not believe it is appropriate for the City of Naperville to impose costly restrictions on the property that will require the diversion of financial resources away from Little Friends' people and programs, and into this legacy property for the purpose of preservation or re-creation of an estate like setting.

Someone has to shoulder the enormous costs associated with any restriction imposed. It is clear that no government or agency wants to bear the burden, as they have not responded to the offers to buy the property at market value. Why would it be appropriate for the City to force Little Friends to lose the economic benefits of their property? I don't believe that it is.

Families across the region are counting on Naperville's leaders. Individuals from 52 different school districts benefit through Little Friends' programming. A costly restriction that hurts Little Friends is not consistent with Naperville's brand, heritage or the purpose of a historical preservation policy. Something appropriate for the neighborhood can take this legacy campus' place.

I support Little Friends and I hope you will too by allowing them to sell their legacy campus without restriction.

Patty Crouse

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2019 11:23 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to urge the City of Naperville to consider all the facts and circumstances as it decides whether to impose costly preservation restrictions on Little Friends' legacy and outdated campus. I support Little Friends' request to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness, because they need the financial resources to invest in their people and programming.

Historic preservation is a worthy goal, but preservation should weigh the significance of the specific property versus the costs associated with re-creation. In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. That is why it is appropriate for the City to grant permission for demolition of the campus.

Little Friends has been at the legacy campus for nearly 44 years and they are longest user of the property. Little Friends serves nearly 800 families per year. It would not be unreasonable to say that they have had more of an impact on our community and families than any other previous occupant of the property.

I do not believe it is appropriate for the City of Naperville to impose costly restrictions on the property that will require the diversion of financial resources away from Little Friends' people and programs, and into this legacy property for the purpose of preservation or re-creation of an estate like setting.

Someone has to shoulder the enormous costs associated with any restriction imposed. It is clear that no government or agency wants to bear the burden, as they have not responded to the offers to buy the property at market value. Why would it be appropriate for the City to force Little Friends to lose the economic benefits of their property? I don't believe that it is.

Families across the region are counting on Naperville's leaders. Individuals from 52 different school districts benefit through Little Friends' programming. A costly restriction that hurts Little Friends is not consistent with Naperville's brand, heritage or the purpose of a historical preservation policy. Something appropriate for the neighborhood can take this legacy campus' place.

I support Little Friends and I hope you will too by allowing them to sell their legacy campus without restriction.

Dolores Khan
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] Naperville, Illinois, 60565-1321

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2019 11:18 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to urge the City of Naperville to consider all the facts and circumstances as it decides whether to impose costly preservation restrictions on Little Friends' legacy and outdated campus. I support Little Friends' request to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness, because they need the financial resources to invest in their people and programming.

Historic preservation is a worthy goal, but preservation should weigh the significance of the specific property versus the costs associated with re-creation. In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. That is why it is appropriate for the City to grant permission for demolition of the campus.

Little Friends has been at the legacy campus for nearly 44 years and they are longest user of the property. Little Friends serves nearly 800 families per year. It would not be unreasonable to say that they have had more of an impact on our community and families than any other previous occupant of the property.

I do not believe it is appropriate for the City of Naperville to impose costly restrictions on the property that will require the diversion of financial resources away from Little Friends' people and programs, and into this legacy property for the purpose of preservation or re-creation of an estate like setting.

Someone has to shoulder the enormous costs associated with any restriction imposed. It is clear that no government or agency wants to bear the burden, as they have not responded to the offers to buy the property at market value. Why would it be appropriate for the City to force Little Friends to lose the economic benefits of their property? I don't believe that it is.

Families across the region are counting on Naperville's leaders. Individuals from 52 different school districts benefit through Little Friends' programming. A costly restriction that hurts Little Friends is not consistent with Naperville's brand, heritage or the purpose of a historical preservation policy. Something appropriate for the neighborhood can take this legacy campus' place.

I support Little Friends and I hope you will too by allowing them to sell their legacy campus without restriction.

Maria T
[REDACTED]

60148

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2019 11:17 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to urge the City of Naperville to consider all the facts and circumstances as it decides whether to impose costly preservation restrictions on Little Friends' legacy and outdated campus. I support Little Friends' request to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness, because they need the financial resources to invest in their people and programming.

Historic preservation is a worthy goal, but preservation should weigh the significance of the specific property versus the costs associated with re-creation. In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. That is why it is appropriate for the City to grant permission for demolition of the campus.

Little Friends has been at the legacy campus for nearly 44 years and they are longest user of the property. Little Friends serves nearly 800 families per year. It would not be unreasonable to say that they have had more of an impact on our community and families than any other previous occupant of the property.

I do not believe it is appropriate for the City of Naperville to impose costly restrictions on the property that will require the diversion of financial resources away from Little Friends' people and programs, and into this legacy property for the purpose of preservation or re-creation of an estate like setting.

Someone has to shoulder the enormous costs associated with any restriction imposed. It is clear that no government or agency wants to bear the burden, as they have not responded to the offers to buy the property at market value. Why would it be appropriate for the City to force Little Friends to lose the economic benefits of their property? I don't believe that it is.

Families across the region are counting on Naperville's leaders. Individuals from 52 different school districts benefit through Little Friends' programming. A costly restriction that hurts Little Friends is not consistent with Naperville's brand, heritage or the purpose of a historical preservation policy. Something appropriate for the neighborhood can take this legacy campus' place.

I support Little Friends and I hope you will too by allowing them to sell their legacy campus without restriction.

Kaitlin DiSanti

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2019 11:17 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to urge the City of Naperville to consider all the facts and circumstances as it decides whether to impose costly preservation restrictions on Little Friends' legacy and outdated campus. I support Little Friends' request to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness, because they need the financial resources to invest in their people and programming.

Historic preservation is a worthy goal, but preservation should weigh the significance of the specific property versus the costs associated with re-creation. In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. That is why it is appropriate for the City to grant permission for demolition of the campus.

Little Friends has been at the legacy campus for nearly 44 years and they are longest user of the property. Little Friends serves nearly 800 families per year. It would not be unreasonable to say that they have had more of an impact on our community and families than any other previous occupant of the property.

I do not believe it is appropriate for the City of Naperville to impose costly restrictions on the property that will require the diversion of financial resources away from Little Friends' people and programs, and into this legacy property for the purpose of preservation or re-creation of an estate like setting.

Someone has to shoulder the enormous costs associated with any restriction imposed. It is clear that no government or agency wants to bear the burden, as they have not responded to the offers to buy the property at market value. Why would it be appropriate for the City to force Little Friends to lose the economic benefits of their property? I don't believe that it is.

Families across the region are counting on Naperville's leaders. Individuals from 52 different school districts benefit through Little Friends' programming. A costly restriction that hurts Little Friends is not consistent with Naperville's brand, heritage or the purpose of a historical preservation policy. Something appropriate for the neighborhood can take this legacy campus' place.

I support Little Friends and I hope you will too by allowing them to sell their legacy campus without restriction.

Evan Deichstetter

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED] Bloomingdale, Illinois, 60108

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2019 11:15 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

I am writing to urge the City of Naperville to consider all the facts and circumstances as it decides whether to impose costly preservation restrictions on Little Friends' legacy and outdated campus. I support Little Friends' request to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness, because they need the financial resources to invest in their people and programming.

Historic preservation is a worthy goal, but preservation should weigh the significance of the specific property versus the costs associated with re-creation. In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. That is why it is appropriate for the City to grant permission for demolition of the campus.

Little Friends has been at the legacy campus for nearly 44 years and they are longest user of the property. Little Friends serves nearly 800 families per year. It would not be unreasonable to say that they have had more of an impact on our community and families than any other previous occupant of the property.

I do not believe it is appropriate for the City of Naperville to impose costly restrictions on the property that will require the diversion of financial resources away from Little Friends' people and programs, and into this legacy property for the purpose of preservation or re-creation of an estate like setting.

Someone has to shoulder the enormous costs associated with any restriction imposed. It is clear that no government or agency wants to bear the burden, as they have not responded to the offers to buy the property at market value. Why would it be appropriate for the City to force Little Friends to lose the economic benefits of their property? I don't believe that it is.

Families across the region are counting on Naperville's leaders. Individuals from 52 different school districts benefit through Little Friends' programming. A costly restriction that hurts Little Friends is not consistent with Naperville's brand, heritage or the purpose of a historical preservation policy. Something appropriate for the neighborhood can take this legacy campus' place.

I support Little Friends and I hope you will too by allowing them to sell their legacy campus without restriction.

Samantha Crouse

Mattingly, Gabrielle

From: Little Friends <info@supportlittlefriends.org>
Sent: Thursday, October 24, 2019 8:30 AM
To: Mattingly, Gabrielle
Subject: Support Little Friends - Not The Re-Creation Of An Estate

CAUTION: This e-mail originated outside of the City of Naperville (@naperville.il.us).

DO NOT click links or open attachments unless you confirm the incoming address of the sender and know the content is safe.

Little Friends is an organization that is very near and dear to our hearts. When our son, Evan, was very young we had a very difficult time communicating with him and understanding the way his mind worked. With the help of Little Friends, we were able to identify his cognitive strengths and unique personality. It allowed us to share these findings with his school teachers and doctors so we could create a rich environment for him to learn and grow. Today, Evan is a very happy and successful High School Junior who is discovering his gifts everyday. If it wasn't for Little Friends my wife and I would have struggled in helping Evan be the person he is today. Autism and Cognitive Learning Behaviors are difficult to understand and diagnose, especially for the parents. They require extensive resources and professionals who are passionate for the work they do and the children they support. Taking these resources and talents away from families like ours would be a disservice to them and the community as a whole. As a former benefactor of Little Friends' Family Services, I am writing to urge the City of Naperville to consider all the facts and circumstances as it decides whether to impose costly preservation restrictions on Little Friends' legacy and outdated campus. I support Little Friends' request to obtain a Certificate of Appropriateness, because they need the financial resources to invest in their people and programming.

Historic preservation is a worthy goal, but preservation should weigh the significance of the specific property versus the costs associated with re-creation. In this case, it is clear that the campus is beyond its useful economic life. Little Friends has invested in its property over the years, but it is functionally obsolete. That is why it is appropriate for the City to grant permission for demolition of the campus.

Little Friends has been at the legacy campus for nearly 44 years and they are longest user of the property. Little Friends serves nearly 800 families per year. It would not be unreasonable to say that they have had more of an impact on our community and families than any other previous occupant of the property.

I do not believe it is appropriate for the City of Naperville to impose costly restrictions on the property that will require the diversion of financial resources away from Little Friends' people and programs, and into this legacy property for the purpose of preservation or re-creation of an estate like setting.

Someone has to shoulder the enormous costs associated with any restriction imposed. It is clear that no government or agency wants to bear the burden, as they have not responded to the offers to buy the property at market value. Why would it be appropriate for the City to force Little Friends to lose the economic benefits of their property? I don't believe that it is.

Families across the region are counting on Naperville's leaders. Individuals from 52 different school districts benefit through Little Friends' programming. A costly restriction that hurts Little Friends is not consistent with Naperville's brand, heritage or the purpose of a historical preservation policy. Something appropriate for the neighborhood can take this legacy campus' place.

I support Little Friends and I hope you will too by allowing them to sell their legacy campus without restriction.

John Daly

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Darien, Illinois, 60561