Erickson reported on the following items that were discussed in detail at last week's PDC Committee meeting.

South Extension Project Update: The consultants previously met with Hitchcock and reviewed updates to the South Gateway project of the Riverwalk 2031 Master Plan which included vertical articulation of the ground plain, adding micro forest areas and more trees, and thinking in terms of vistas for screening purposes for the neighbors while considering the views from Washington Street. Erickson commented that the plan is developing beautifully and reminded the group that it could be reviewed further as it was an attachment to the December 3rd PDC Committee agenda.

Dusak noted that there were a lot of subtle but impactful enhancements that have been made since the concept which are being incorporated into the final plans. They have already submitted for permits and will work towards getting the final bid documents prepared. Construction is expected to begin at the end of next year.

Hitchcock echoed Erickson's comments on the design and noted the great job being done by the consultants. He discussed the stone wall that was installed at the Endeavor Health medical building at Martin Avenue, noting that once the stonework goes up on the east side it would be obvious that this was a significant gateway to the Riverwalk. He reviewed some of the objectives of the Riverwalk 2031 Master Plan projects, noting this project checks the boxes to include the opportunity to improve river ecology, connectivity, hospitality and safety, appearance, and to also engage a next generation of advocates.

Novack reported that the Eagle Street Gateway project construction contract was awarded to Baumgartner Construction at the December 3rd City Council meeting and thanked Holzhauer and City Council. Construction should begin in the spring of 2025. Erickson spoke of the request back in 2008 from a Naperville resident regarding accessibility to the lower walkway and would like to make sure the family is invited for the groundbreaking event when it is scheduled.

Cowan inquired about the South Extension project timing with Novack advising it should go out for bid late next year with the bulk of construction occurring in 2026.

Grand Pavilion Parking Lot Improvements: A feasibility study was conducted and presented by ERA for a proposed permeable paver parking lot near the Grand Pavilion. The group discussed the opportunity for improvements to water quality, and as part of the Riverwalk 2031 Master Plan. While it was determined that a permeable paver lot could be built, concerns were raised regarding the potential need for extensive maintenance and the costs involved.

Sullivan inquired about potential outside funding that may be available and if there were other opportunities for improvements. Motta and Novack discussed the history and constraints that resulted in perfect conditions for the permeable paver lot at the Morton Arboretum. Motta noted maintenance issues with another parking lot that was prone to flooding and silted in quickly, negating the permeability of the entire lot. Holzhauer noted that while this is a showpiece to the community and we would want the very best for the Riverwalk, it may not be the solution if it is only performative. Hitchcock reminded the group of the of the broader context of the parking lot being redesigned as part of the Master Plan and serving a bigger and better purpose while improving capacity, existing drainage issues, and ecology.

Further discussion on this will continue at the upcoming February 4, 2025 PDC Committee meeting.
